

Long term BDI client Mr Ron Farnill.

Ron Farnill lives on a hilltop property in the scenic red hill area of the Peninsula.

Ron is BDI's oldest client (set to receive a telegram from the Queen in a few years' time), but he is still very able, as attested by his wood chopping days preparing firewood for his open fireplace.

In his younger days, Ron was an accomplished cyclist, enjoying long rides in the Yorkshire countryside of England. He also took a keen interest in sailing.

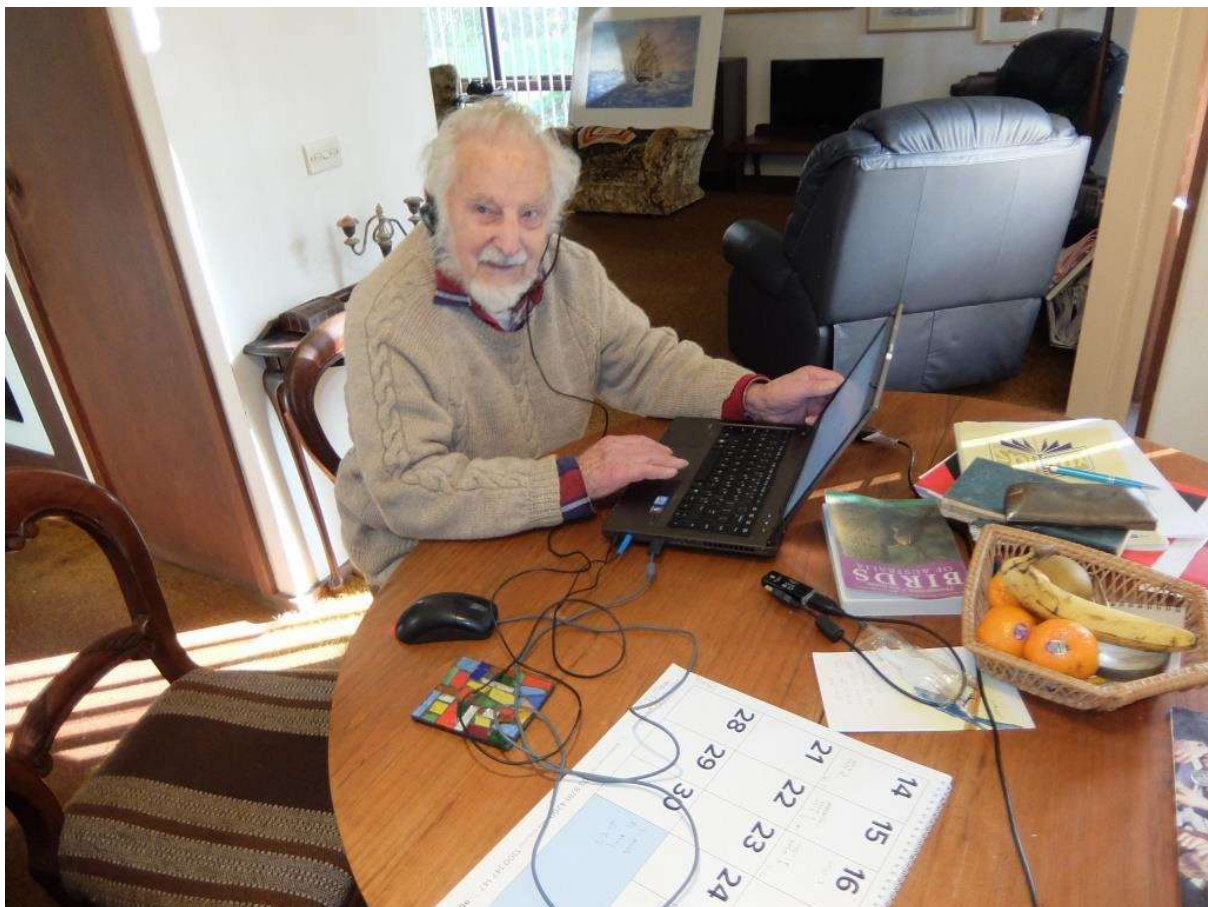

In more recent times his paintings have made him a well-known artist, who is also in demand as a tutor, teaching classes in the Mornington and Frankston areas. He specialises in sailing ship landscapes and has held a number of successful local and interstate exhibitions.

As he lives alone, following the passing of Betty his wife, his BDI laptop has become an important communication tool.

In recent times BDI have provided him with the video program zoom to allow him to join a BDI meeting. He was having hearing issues with the laptop, even at full volume settings.

BDI came to the rescue with a headset. Ron was delighted to report that he actually had to turn down the volume as the headset was so good!

Ron is also a keen gardener. With the current corona virus situation, the garden is getting more attention.
